

Accommodations for Reading

Instruction

1. Phonological awareness: the sounds of language, including phonemic awareness (for example, recognizing the three distinct sound in the word cat).
2. Sounds-symbol association: sounds matched to letters.
3. Syllable structure: predictable pattern is that support word decoding and spelling.
4. Morphology: meaningful word parts such as prefixes, suffixes, and root words.
5. Syntax: sentence structure
6. Semantics: word and phrase meanings

Accommodations

1. Audiobooks
2. Text to speech technology
3. Oral testing or prompting
4. Extended time on assignments involving reading and writing
5. Extended time on assessments
6. Writing options: print or word processing
7. Grading assignments for content without penalizing for spelling errors.
8. Avoid reading or spelling allowed in front of peers.
9. You spelling words that it says specific features (i.e. syllable types).
10. Provide copies of teacher's or peer's notes
11. Use a graphic organizers
12. Pre-teach new, essential vocabulary words when introducing content

Created by: Kathy Denious, M. Ed. With SilverLining Education